In places where light faded and darkness became clear, there was a combination of them that formed worlds. In the clottings of light, and in reverse darkness, the peak emerged – the gods. Gods do not always conflict, unlike their followers,divinely begotten, who in turn tried to stand at the level of the deity and even cross. And when one creature, with a dark soul, managed to overthrow the mighty gods, so the balance of the world became entant, the borders became blurred, creatures of different origins got out of their territories, conflicts arose. The world of harmony and peace has become a battlefield without borders. Brave warriors put their heads up, trying to keep shreds of hope to keep the chaos, restore peace. Many once prosperous places have lost their size and become bastions of hope and protection for survivors. The wrath of the surviving gods turned into a bridge of souls, through which they could be reborn, but at the expense of their present life. For the return of the soul needed beacons, they began to build all over the world. Many began to forget their purpose, the importance of existence, each time returning, becoming more and more crazy and aimlessly wandered the world in search of themselves, collecting nuggets of knowledge, dying, losing all faith, memory, intelligence. By sacrificing himself as a deity, he created an endless cycle of reincarnation, thereby deteriorating the fate of the worlds. Disappeared. The struggle lasts for centuries, and maybe even millennia, no one knows for sure. A creature holding his mind from madness and darkness, combining the essences of light and darkness, created a man who, in turn, was to end an endless battle. People, nameless creations, and fought on the side of light and against. The capture of relics, dead creatures, people became more powerful than the creators themselves, but the vicious circle of reincarnation did not miss them. Kingdoms were built, protected by relics, in which there was an illusion of harmony, beyond the borders of war did not disappear. War they were able to possess artifacts of all opposites. As they studied the relics of the original, generated by God, some became defiled, carriers of more power than their soul could accept, thus they became deities, new gods. Wake up and lead people to hope. Strengthening the ultimate gladiator ability, now increases the physical attack. Fixes for interaction windows. Small corrections. [Minimum RAM] Prehistory There was light and darkness. The places where the light faded and the darkness became clear was their connection that shaped the world. A clot of light and in reverse – a dark, embossed top – pleasantly. Gods will not always fight for divine begging, unlike their followers, who in turn try to stand with eight or even more. And when the creature, with a dark soul managed to overthrow the mighty gods, therefore the balance of the world was reduced to zero, the boundaries blurred, creatures of different origins moved out of their territories, creating conflicts. Happened. The world of harmony and peace has become a battleground with the border. Brave warriors put their heads up in an attempt to preserve the chaos, a piece of hope for the restoration of peace. Many times wealthy places have lost their greatness and become bastions of hope and protection for survivors. The wrath of the living gods has turned into a bridge of souls through which they can be reborn, but at the expense of their present life. Beacons were needed for the return of the soul, they began to build all over the world. Many began to forget their purpose, the importance of existence, returning every time, becoming more and more crazy and wandering the world in search of themselves aimlessly, collecting nuggets of knowledge, dying, losing all faith, memory, intelligence. By sacrificing themselves, the gods created an endless cycle of rebirth, increasing the fate of the world. They are lost. The battle has been going on for centuries, perhaps for millennia, no one knows for sure. Combining essays of light and darkness, the creature, holding his mind with madness and melancholy, created a man who was to end the endless battle in the end. People, anonymous creations and light fought side by side. Remnants, capturing dead creatures, people themselves became more powerful than the creators, but the vicious circle of rebirth did not miss them. The creation of states, protected by relics, with the illusion of harmony, has not disappeared beyond the limits of war. The people of war were masters of the artifacts of every enemy. As they studied the remnants of the original divinely generated, some became unclean, accepting carriers of greater power than their souls could, thus becoming a deity, a new deity. Diverse character classes First, to participate in the game, the player will need the character to be able to control and fight monsters.
